Catholic Leader Calls 'Dixiecrats' Immoral, Urges Labor to Fight

By the Associated Press
NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 25.—The general chairman of the Catholic Committee of the South told CIO delegates today the "Dixiecrat" movement is immoral and that labor must take political action to defeat it.

The speaker was the Rev. Vincent J. O'Connell. The Committee of the South is a lay and clerical committee sponsored by Catholic bishops in Southern States. The labor delegates were here to attend the Louisiana convention of the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Later, Father O'Connell told newsmen that when he used the term "Dixiecrats" he referred to the States' Rights movement.

He told the delegates that the "Dixiecrat" movement is based on concepts of white supremacy and company unionism, and added that "If you are not convinced that those Dixiecrat ideals are immoral, you don't belong in the labor movement."

He called on labor to get together with management to write a new labor relations law.

Members of Congress, "most of them lawyers," are generally incapable of writing a suitable labor law, he said, but representatives of management and labor could get together and help them draft one.

"Most Senators and Representatives do not have the know-how to write a piece of legislation that will work in labor relations," he said. "They write a bill throwing human relations into the courts. And the courts cannot give us good labor relations any more than the divorce courts can insure happiness between husband and wife."
